As part of its WTO commitments, Mauritius has enacted a series of legislations on intellectual property, namely:

- the Copyright Act of 2014;
- the Patents, Industrial Designs and Trademarks Act (PIDTA) 2002;
- the Protection Against Unfair Practices (Industrial Property Rights) Act 2002;
- the Geographical Indications Act 2002; and

However, given the more prominent role which Intellectual Property (IP) is expected to play in the economic and cultural development of the country, it has been decided to reinforce the IP policy and to expand the scope of protection of IPRs.

In this context, the Intellectual Property Development Plan (IPDP) developed in collaboration with WIPO in 2009 was reviewed in 2016 to reflect the dynamics of the changing IP environment. The IPDP seeks to ensure, amongst others, that the organisations involved in IP enforcement, the potential users as well as generators of IP have the technical capacity and know-how to use IP as a tool to promote research, innovation and economic growth.
The IPDP recommends, amongst others, that the following be implemented:

- Finalisation and enactment of a comprehensive Industrial Property Bill that purports to ensure compliance with the latest development on IP at the International level, among others. This new piece of legislation will encompass all aspects of Industrial Property, namely Trade Mark, Patent, Industrial Design, Plant Breeders’ Rights, Geographical Indications and Layout Design of integrated circuits.
